Leif Bruun: Pedal-steel
Jens Falck: Viola*

Singer and songwriter Pernille Gunvad choses new paths for her second album, Doing Right. Alle the new paths are about freedom: Personal freedom to express yourself, freedom to be all that we are. Every person is many identities in one – how do we make them work together? That's what Doing Right is about.

Doing Right is a varied album. It spans from the dirty and beautiful over the vulnerable and exuberant honest to the pervers and greedily insisting. Touches of humour and irony on one side and thoughtfulness on the other sides shows new faces to the talent of Pernille Gunvad. «Pernille Gunvad has a talent that commits, and Fire is the start of a promising career» – this was just one of the positive comments the now 34-year old singer from Aarhus got following the release of her debut-album in 2005. «Fire» was also released and well-received in Canada and the release was followed by an extensive tour with performance at a.o. Pop Montreal-festival.

Much has happened since Pernille released the debut in 2005, but the music is never forgotten in Pernilles world. Since the release of Fire she has worked with producer and multi-instrumentalist Julian Falck (Mofus, Sara Grabow, Louise Hart a.o.) on this new record. Doing Right is recorded with much greater freedom than the debut; many of the vocals have been done «one-take» which gives the tunes a direct approach, a reckless courage and a challenging, seductive and sometimes sexual appearance.

Pernille Gunvad lets herself go with songs of recognising and appreciating yourself, and thereby appreciating what life itself is, instead of restraining yourself and focussing on all the flaws. Doing Right is the tension between body and soul, life and death – in the effort to let go of the obsession of what's perfect.
